

DESCRIPTION

A sculptural expression of balance and material honesty, the Kalota bar chair is defined by its circular seat, an echo of the calotte form, resting atop a slender wooden base. The seat, available in solid wood, leather, or fabric upholstery, offers a tactile and visual contrast to the wooden structure, while maintaining a cohesive material narrative. The rounded form invites the body with ergonomic subtlety, while the craftsmanship reveals itself in the seamless transitions and refined detailing. Kalota is a quiet statement, elevated, minimal, and grounded in the warmth of natural materials.

PRODUCTION PROCESS

The bar chair parts are made of solid wood pieces of the same length but different widths, with precisely crafted joints on CNC machines. Each piece is chosen through careful matching of wood colors and structures. The upholstered seats are covered with HR foam and upholstery for superior comfort. The technical parameters of hand-assembled chairs comply with standard requirements. Final sanding is done manually with fine-grained sandpaper, and various types of finishes enable a wide selection of the chair's final appearance.
